ABSTRACT:

The Common Fund Early Independence Award (EIA) program is requesting input from the scientific community to help identify crucial needs, gaps, and barriers in the application and review process. The questions are intended to assess satisfaction levels with various components of the program, and the responses are expected to reveal gaps and highlight opportunities for enhancement. The information collected will increase our understanding of the levels of community satisfaction with each EIA component, which will aid in identifying specific, achievable goals to enhance the program. Stakeholder input is vital to address unique challenges for the program. The proposed questions will generate knowledge, which will be used to improve the program and the development of future initiatives.
