

DPRP Web Site (homepage)

The screenshot shows the CDC Diabetes Prevention Recognition Program (DPRP) homepage. The browser window has a single tab titled "CDC - Diabetes Prevention ...". The address bar shows the URL "http://www.cdc.gov/diabetes/prevention/recognition/". The page features the CDC logo and the tagline "CDC 24/7: Saving Lives. Protecting People.™". A search bar is located in the top right. Below the header is an alphabetical index from A to Z. The main heading is "National Diabetes Prevention Program". On the left is a sidebar menu with options like "About the Program", "Marketing Resources", "Prediabetes: Am I at Risk?", "Lifestyle Coach Training", "Diabetes Prevention Recognition Program" (selected), "Read the Standards for Recognition", "Get the Curriculum", "Apply for Recognition", "About the DPRP", "Registry of Recognized Programs", "Frequently Asked Questions", "Program Video", "Newsroom", and "Resources". The main content area includes a "National Diabetes Prevention Program" link, social media sharing buttons (Recommend, Tweet, Share), and a "Diabetes Prevention Recognition Program" section. This section describes the CDC's DPRP as a key component of the National Diabetes Prevention Program, aimed at recognizing organizations that deliver lifestyle change intervention programs to prevent type 2 diabetes. Below this is a "Recognition Program Topics" grid with six tiles: "Read the Standards for Recognition", "About the DPRP", "Get the Curriculum", "Registry of Recognized Programs", "Apply for Recognition", and "Frequently Asked Questions". On the right side of the main content area, there are links for "Print page", "Get e-mail Updates", "Subscribe to RSS", and "Listen to audio/Podcast". At the bottom right, there is a promotional banner titled "Could You Have Prediabetes?" with a "Take the Quiz" button and "INFO" and "SHARE" links. The Windows taskbar at the bottom shows the time as 3:09 PM on 8/7/2014, along with various system icons and open applications.
