The Michigan Migrant Education program has reviewed the proposed revision for the ICR and has the following comments. The MSIX system, its functions, and the data it contains are critical to the effective operation of the Migrant Education Program. The system operates in such a way that it allows timely and efficient coordination of key educational services between school districts. In our case the MSIX system is connected digitally to send and receive data which greatly reduces any burden for data entry. We assume that most SEAs have similar connections and that the estimated burden in the publication is much higher than the current actual burden. We do not feel that any of the data collected currently is unnecessary or does any burden of collecting that data outweigh its benefit.
