I filed Form I-131 for re-parole under the Uniting for Ukraine program on December 20, 2024.

Because employment authorization cannot be issued until re-parole is approved, delays in adjudicating this form directly prevent applicants from working.

My work authorization expired on February 6, 2026 while my re-parole application remains pending.

Many applicants in this program are experiencing similar delays, which creates significant financial hardship and undermines the intended purpose of humanitarian parole.

I respectfully ask USCIS and OMB to review the adjudication process and timelines for Form I-131 re-parole applications.
